Fall 2007
Everyday we spend on this Earth without revolutionizing our own thoughts and actions according to ourselves and all those around us. The widespread indoctrination of individuals in our society attempts to wash our minds clean of original thought and stagnates what could otherwise become revolutionary acts of kindness, love, and peace. By changing ourselves, we in turn change the world. It's hope that provides us this opportunity and we must breathe life into it once again. This is my revolution. Never suspend disbelief.
