You now hold in your hands the culmination of eight months of procrastination by the students of the Rowan University Art Department.

The Gallery is an annual publication filled with just some of the amazing work produced by the students who inhabit the Westby art building. A team of student jurors evaluate each submission. They consider qualities such as composition, concept, and technical execution to determine the strongest pieces.

Not only is this book a showcase of Rowan student work, but is one itself. It is designed, funded and produced by students for students. The publication team collaborates on every aspect of the creative process from start to finish.
